

CLK 63 Down Under: CarsGuide.com.au Tests Mercedes' AMG-Tuned Midsize Coupe

{mosgoogle right}During the tenth annual Classic Adelaide rally that took place in Australia a week ago, the fine gentlemen of CarsGuide.com.au took a moment to strap themselves in behind the wheel of the AMG-tuned CLK 63, navigating it alongside the hundreds of other exotic automobiles in attendance and of course, writing about their excursions for the rest of the wanting world to lust after. Although not particularly shocking considering they were piloting a roughly 500 horsepower coupe, the reviewers noted that the CLK had an amazing 'willingness to corner' and 'ferocious acceleration'. The reviewer also noted, when it came time to slow the CLK 63, that 'the brakes were stronger than expected and complement the powerplant with the right sort of potency'.
