

Mercedes Extends Its Online Accessory Configurator To Include Wheel And Telematics Options

{mosgoogle right}Mercedes-Benz Accessories GmbH has announced today that to coincide with the market launch of the new C-Class, they have extended their online 'Accessory Configurator' to include both wheel and telematics options.

As for how exactly the new options have been implemented, one example is wheels, in which users of the Accessory Configurator will now be able to select from a varied selection of both standard and optional equipment and in real time, see their selections on a sample vehicle. Three different viewing angles to see your selection on the virtual model are available, and the ability to change your vehicle's paint color is also present.

Once you've decided on the option (or options) you'd like to incorporate, you can then save your selections to an electronic notepad and present them to an authorized Mercedes-Benz partner for ordering.
