

Mercedes-Benz USA's Sales Increase 3.4 Percent In The Month Of November

{mosgoogle right}Mercedes-Benz USA announced yesterday that sales at their U.S. division increased 3.4 percent for the month of November to 22,819 units, bringing MBUSA's eleven month year-to-date sales to 225,904 new units - a 2.8 percent increase over the same period last year. Models which helped contribute the sales increase included the new C-Class, which improved 56 percent over last November with 6,920 units sold; as well as the SL-Class, which improved seven percent with 488 units sold. Surprisingly, the model noting the month's biggest gains, however, came by way of the always-classic G-Class, with sales of the SUV jumping an impressive 211 percent to 109 new units.
