

Mercedes-Benz Debuts myCOMAND Internet-Based Infotainment System At Los Angeles Auto Show

Offering a brief glimpse into the future of in-car entertainment, Mercedes-Benz has unveiled what they're calling "myCOMAND" – an Internet-based infotainment system currently featured on their Concept FASCINATION study. As you might expect from an Internet-based infotainment system, the technology harnesses the power of the almighty Web, and serves it up in a way that's most beneficial to you, the driver, based on your specific location and needs. Here are a few examples that demonstrate the functionality myCOMAND will possess:
