

2011 Mercedes-Benz CLS Prototype Caught Cold Weather Testing

{mosgoogle right}Welcome back ladies and gentlemen; I hope you all had a fantastic weekend. Kicking things off this chilly Monday morning comes the latest look at the next Mercedes CLS – one that shows the model undergoing a bit of cold weather testing on the frigid terrain of Sweden. As you'll see, the model is heavily disguised, meaning there's not much you'll see in terms of design; however, there is a shot of the model being followed by the current C-Class, giving us at least some indication of the model's proportions.

Â

Read moreÂ