

First Drive: Road and Track Gets Behind The Wheel Of The Brabus SV12 S Biturbo

{mosgoogle right}Taking a break from the day's Detroit Auto Show coverage, our friend Brad directed us to a recent review conducted by Road and Track - one which looks at arguably the most covetable tuner Mercedes-Benz S-Class model in existence: the Brabus SV12 S Biturbo. For those of you unfamiliar with the Brabus SV12 S, it truly is an exquisite creature. Boasting a 6.3 Liter, 730 horsepower V12 powerplant, the Brabus-tuned Merc is capable of accelerating from 0-60 mph in just 4.0 seconds and attaining a top speed of 211 mph. As for the reviewer's sentiments, they seem to echo Brabus' performance claims:

Â

Read moreÂ