

The 2010 Mercedes-Benz E-Class Featured In Auto Bild

{mosgoogle right}Although rumor still has it the 2010 Mercedes E-Class wont be making its debut until the International Auto Show in Frankfurt next year, that hasnt stopped Auto Bild from showcasing the model in their newest publication. In the article, the model is displayed from a number of different angles, all without the masking that up until now its been adorned with. Before you get too excited, however, I do have to note that despite their quality, the photos arent actually photos... theyre instead high quality renderings showing an approximation of what the 2010 Mercedes E-Class will look like. Nevertheless, when compared to prior spy shots, the renderings do a commendable job at replicating the visible lines of the model, meaning the final product shouldnt be too far off from whats pictured before you.

Â

Read moreÂ