

Mercedes To Recall S-Class In China

{mosgoogle right} Reuters is reporting today that DaimlerChrysler plans to recall the majority of Mercedes S-Class models sold in China, due to potential problems with the fuel tanks. The recall involves 23,677 S-Class sedans manufactured from October 1998 to March 2005, or if you're the percentage type, 95% of all S-Class models sold in the country.
