

New Mercedes-Benz E-Class Notes Highest Resale Value In Residual Value Forecast

If you're the type of person that enjoys spending your time reading residual value forecasts for various automotive segments, you'll be absolutely delighted to learn that the new Mercedes E-Class will in the next three years note the highest resale value of any vehicle in the luxury segment. According to calculations by the market research institute B&F Forecast, the new E250 CDI will retain up to 62.5 percent of its current new price – placing it atop the luxury heap. Furthermore, as a result of its performance, the Mercedes E250 CDI has also been bestowed with the "2009 value retention champion" award, an accolade given every year by the German publication Auto-Bild.
